Virtuozzo

Virtuozzo provides integrated container, virtual machine, and software-defined storage technology that leads to better cost efficiency, scalability and security in data centers around the world. It was the first company to monetize container workloads almost 20 years ago and has over five million containers in production today. It has also been a thought leader and active contributor to many influential open source projects, including Linux kernel, OpenVZ, CRIU, KVM, Docker, OpenStack, CNCF and OCI.
